Meanwhile, the recent results of the Maharashtra Zilla Parishad elections have led Prime Minister Modi to declare a victory for the BJP and its allies. Additionally, the Congress party faces internal challenges, particularly with Rohit Tilak's distancing from the party since Modi received the Lokmanya Tilak award. As political tensions rise, the citizens of Pune and beyond remain attentive to the unfolding developments.

BY BING | ENVIRONMENT | 12 MAR 2026

Pune's traffic woes may see some relief following the inauguration of a double-decker bridge on Ganeshkhind Road, facilitated virtually by Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis. This new infrastructure is expected to alleviate congestion in key areas, providing a boost to the city's connectivity. However, while Pune strides towards better traffic management, a stark report highlights a concerning environmental issue. The 2026 State of India's Environment report reveals that only 15% of India's population, roughly 200 million people, live within 10 kilometers of an air quality monitor. This leaves over 1.2 billion people without reliable data on air pollution levels, raising alarms on public health and environmental safety. As Pune advances with infrastructure, addressing air quality must remain a priority for sustainable urban living.
